

Contributors

Margaret W. Andrews is a member of the Department of History, Washington State University.

Patricia E. Roy has recently published A White Man's Province: British Columbia Politicians and Japanese Immigrants, 1858-1914, and with J. L. Granatstein, Masako Iino, and Hiroko Takamura, Mutual Hostages: Canadians and Japanese During the Second World War.

Norman J. Ruff teaches political science at the University of Victoria. He joined BC STUDIES' editorial board after his article in this issue was accepted for publication.